You have learned of it from Harold Gardner, the subpoena was vacated it would estrom Seymour Glover and from that dear friend of the family who talked with her for half an hour on the night of the murder, who stayed with her for a time after Glover's death and whose a time after Glover's death and whose children got $10 as a Christmas present from Samuel D. Elmore. Freeman posses as one of her principal friends, yet he admits her foul speech, which shows the heart, morals and conscience of this woman."

Justice Kapper said that while he desided to aid the commission as far as it was in his power, he could not deprive any one of his constitutional rights. "I will look into the subject thoroughly," promised the Court, "and reserve in y decision." of this woman.

Mr. Johnson then paid his respects to Samuel D. Elmore, formerly Mrs. Glover's personal attorney. Quoting Scripture he said: "The wicked flee when no man pursueth," and then he continued: "You have heard something of Elmore's acts on the night of the shooting. Having committed crime and knowing what her hand had done, Mrs. Glover trusted to the protection of a man to cover up, if he could, her tracks. Did Hattle Le Blanc have $4,000

CHILDS WANTS BROTHER EXAMINED FOR FITNESS.

One Son of Late Brooklyn Millionaire Has Suit to Remove Other Son as Trustee.

Irving W. Childs, who, several years f ago, inherited $500,000 from the estate to-day, of his tather, a Brook'yn millionaire. applied to-day to Supreme Court Jusexamination before the trial of his brother, Eversley Childs in a suit Irving Childs has brought to remove him as trustee of the estate of their father. Decision was reserved.

As a basis for his suit, Irving W. Childs alleges that securities owned by the estate have been sold contrary to the provisions of the will of the father for less than their real value. Irving W. Childs has figured in the courts several times of late. Only yes-terday Justice Blackmar in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, directed him to furnish a bond of $30,000 within thirty days to secure the payment of $8,400 allmony which he has been ordered to pay an-which he has been ordered to pay annually to his wife.

Mrs. Childs, who lives with her daughter at No. 185 Stratford road, Brooklyn, declares her husband, from whom she is separated, has squandered nearly all of the half-million dollars he inherited from his father. On his twenty-fifth hirthday—next year—she says he will come into another fortune of $750,000 and she asked the Court for the $200,000 bond to protect her interests and those of her child.

He appealed to the jury to acquit Hattle Le Blanc, that she might be excused. The Court decided that he was acting in good faith and refused to suspend the trial, which was adjourned until to-morrow.

Then, folding his hands in prayer and raising his eyes, Mr. Johnson fervently said:

"Almighty God, give unto this jury the power to dispel saturite cumning, the power not to prevent rightesuness and justice to the innocent. Grant, Oh God, that the proud escutheon of Massachusetts will not be stained by the blood of this innocent child."
